Why don’t I see my entry right away when I leave a comment in a Guest Book?

Guest book entries must be approved by the library steward before they can display in the Guest Book. While your guest book entry is under review, you will see a pending approval message next to your entry. That message will disappear when it has been approved.

The steward receives a push notification in the mobile app when they have new entries to review. The steward reviews new entries and approves or denies them at their discretion.
