

Action Book Club™

Little Free Library®

In a twist on the traditional book club,

Little Free Library's Action Book Club™ combines reading with community service.

Participants are invited to read books on timely topics, engage in lively discussions, and take part in meaningful—and fun—group service projects to benefit their communities. This is reading and social engagement at its best.

By sharing their stories online and inspiring others, Action Book Club members create a ripple effect of positive activity across the country and around the world.

Join Us for Good Reads and Good Deeds

- Launched in 2017, today there are more than 1,400 registered Action Book Clubs and 65,000 members

- The Action Book Club has been featured in the New York Times, Parade, Martha Steward Living, Bustle, Book Riot, and more

Left to right: A middle school in Virginia read Refugee by Alan Gratz, then knit scarves to welcome refugees to their area. Third-graders in Cleveland read Look Where We Live by Scot Ritchie, then started a school recycling program. A women's book club in Alberta read The Readers of Broken Wheel Recommend by Katarina Bivald, the cooked meals for families at a children's hospital.

Action Book Club™

GOOD READS
AND GOOD DEEDS!

STEP ONE

Get a group and join!

STEP THREE

Take positive action in your neighborhood.

STEP TWO

Read a book.

STEP FOUR

Share your story!

How it Works

1. Sign up your club

Members of your Action Book Club can be friends, classmates, family, coworkers, or even an existing book club.

2. Read a book

Select a book for your group to read from the Action Book Club's list of recommendations, or choose a book of your own. Read, enjoy, and discuss it.

3. Take action

Carry out a positive community service project with your group. Select an activity from our list or get creative.

4. Tell your story

After you've finished your project, tell us about it! By sharing your experience you will inspire others to make a difference.
