

Impact Library Program

Little Free Library®

Everyone deserves a book to read.

Little Free Library's Impact Library Program places neighborhood book-sharing boxes in areas where books are scarce.

To date we have granted more than 3,500 Little Free Libraries full of books!

When children grow up in book-rich environments, literacy rates can skyrocket, especially for children living in low-income areas. In fact, access to books is cited as the number-one predictor of a child's ability to thrive in school.

But for many kids, books are hard to come by.

Two out of three children living in poverty have no books of their own. With your help, we can bring little libraries and books where they're needed most.

91% of Impact Program recipients agree their granted library is serving people who have little-to-no access to books elsewhere.

Impact Library Recipients

Our Impact Library recipients come from all across the U.S. and Canada but have something important in common—the desire to increase access to books.

"Our Impact Little Free Library has been up in the courtyard of our school for a couple of months now. I refill it constantly, which is a great thing. Many books are finding their way into homes that otherwise would have none."
—A. A., Irvington, New Jersey

“We established a Little Free Library to celebrate and encourage a love of reading among community members and visitors to our area. Essentially, we want to positively and meaningfully impact and transform lives and our surrounding communities. It has reawakened a love of reading among various community members young and old and spurred us to establish more Little Free Libraries.”

—D. Y., Window Rock, AZ, Navajo Nation
